At the annual dinner of the alumni association of the institute at the Union League Club on Monday night it was announced by Henry Sanger Snow, who recently was elected to succeed Dr. Cochran, that, contrary to the prevailing idea, he had not accepted the place as a permanent office, but only temporarily. Another interesting statement in regard to Mr. Snow's relation with the office was made by Professor Brainerd D. Keilogg. He said that Mr. Snow had accepted the office on the understanding that he should not receive one cent of salary, as well as that he should remain only temporarily at the head of the faculty. It was announced that arrangements had been made for a class in mechanical engineering, which shall be supplementary to the work in civil and mechanical engineering. It is the intention of the officers of the institute to make it more and more a college, and to graduate men thoroughly equipped for all kinds of technical work.

GETS PENSION AND SALARY.

MULVEY WINS HIS CASE AGAINST THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS IN THE APPELLATE DIVISION.

Thomas Mulvey, a policeman, yesterday secured a decision from the Appellate Division, declaring him entitled to receive back pension money from January 1, 1898. Mulvey joined the force in New-York in 1870, and at his own request was retired on October 17, 1893, on an allowance of $1,000 a year from the pension fund.

Later he took charge of the New-Utrecht Police Force before that town was annexed to Brooklyn. When Brooklyn became a part of New-York City, the Police Commissioners refused to allow his pension to continue.

Mulvey, according to the decision, not only is to receive his pension money, but will also retain his place on the force.

PRESIDENT CARRLE SAYS THE STUYVE-SANT HEIGHTS REPUBLICAN CLUB IS UNITED.

Neither personal enmity nor political dissension will be permitted to divide the strength of the Stuyvesant Heights Republican Club. Reports to the contrary, according to President J. C. are idle and absurd. The club as a body will not try to wrest the control of the Twenty-third Ward from Walter B. Atterbury. Mr. Cabble told a Tribune reporter last evening that, in simple justice to the club and Mr. Atterbury, the public ld be informed of the true situation.

"You see." said Mr. Cabble, "that speculation in olitics is always rife and generally false. club has no intention, as an organization, to try to depose Mr. Atterbury or to raise any opposi to his leadership in the ward. Why, a clause in our constitution strictly enjoins us not to indorse even the candidates of our party after they have been nominated."

candidacy of General Tracy. Is that true? asked the reporter.

"It is," replied Mr. Cabble, "and I am glad to have the chance to explain our action on that night. The vote, you see, was pretty evenly divided, and that showed that some of us were for Low, while others were for Tracy. As a matter of fact, we did not want any discussion in the club, and I think a great many of us were average to voting on any such question. Friends of both candidates forced the issue, however, at a special meeting, and we defeated the resolution, which had been tabled at a previous meeting, in order to show that we did not want to indorse any candidate, although Low defeated Tracy by two to one in our ward—the Twenty-third. If we defeated the Tracy resolution, we certainly did not pass one indorsing Low. So there you are."

RUN OVER IN SIGHT OF FRIENDS.

THOMAS CULLEN'S INJURIES RESULTED FATALLY-MOTORMAN HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Edward Greenan, of No. 145 Dupont-st., the motorman of the Myrtle-ave, trolley car which ran over Thomas Cullen on Monday night and inflicted injuries which resulted in his death, was yester-day held for manslaughter in the second degree by Magistrate Teale in the Myrtle-ave. police court. Seth L. Keeney furnished a bond of $2,000 for the prisoner's appearance. Benjamin Barrington, conductor of the car, was discharged.

Thomas Cullen, the victim of the accident, was fifty years old, and lived at Fresh Pond, Long Island. He had been visiting John Doyle, a friend, at No. 290 Myrtle-ave., on Monday night. About 10 o'clock Cullen started for home, accompanied by two men who had been calling on the Doyles. two men who had been calling on the Doyles. Just at this time a Greenpoint car was coming down the hill at a good rate of speed. Cullen did not see it. It is said that the motorman did not sound his gong. At any rate, the car struck Cullen almost before he was aware of its approach. He fell under the car and both his legs were cut of just below the car and both his legs were cut off just below the knees. The car was lifted away and the injured man taken to the Homoropathic Hospital. The doctors did not at first think that the injuries were fatal, but loss of blood and internal injuries caused Cullen's death.

AN IDEAL PLACE FOR SUBURBAN

WHERE TOWN AND COUNTRY ARE COMBINED EAST OF ACCESS AND PLEASANT WHEN REACHED-WHAT A HOME COSTS

Oceanward lies Bath Beach, a home of cottages and broad fields and stately trees, under whose branches the Dutch settler and his children in the good old days made friends with the red man, attended to their own business, worshipped the Almighty, loved nature, never dreamed of the trolley car age, of British occupation, of the Revolution or of the new form of republican government, without kingship or despotic sway, or of the creation of a nation in which life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in a broad, liberal and fraternal spirit of equality were to be assured by a constitution to the oppressed of all nations.

Even the phiegmatic Dutch would have accused a prophet of being a visionary had temerity and courage to predict such a future for this country. In that age Bath Beach, Manhattan and other places, in which there were no skyscrapers, trolley lines or anything else with which we are familiar nowadays, were satisfied with their life and conditions, and did not bother their heads about automobiles, bicycles, politics or the Darwinian

It is a long cry back to those days. Natural evolution, the needs and requirements of modern life, the swift, tremendous tide of immigration, the inevitable congestion in great cities which followed, the desire of man in his progress in culture and accumulation of means to own his own home and to rear his children amid congenial surroundings have changed the geography of this country and the topography of suburban places.

Bath Beach is an illustration of this, and also of the passing away of the Dutch. The names remain. The sons of Holland are gone. Where they greeted the morning sun and welcomed the stars the children of nearly every other race but and to its vision Congressman Daly looms up theirs now dwell. These latter are not tillers of the soil, but business and professional men, who like to ride by horse or car through green fields, within sight of the ocean, to their own garden gates and comfortable homes after the heat and stress and work of the day. COMPROMISE BETWEEN CITY AND COUNTRY

If God made the country and man the town, as a poet of note has said, they seem to have come to a compromise in making the Bath Beach of to-day. It is half town, half country, with the advantages of the one and the delights of the Only twelve years ago it was really unsettled, just as when in the primitive plan it was spread out in its own little segment of the globe. There were a few old houses of the Dutch type, to be sure, picturesque enough in their own way, and later on a striking contrast to modern types of architecture; but they were only fossils, after all, decaying and decayed monuments of a civilization and a period which were bound to be swept away by the great, feverish, inrushing tides of immigration, development, progress and general evolution in every branch of industry, in every phase of society and, indeed, in every walk of the old meadows to bloom with a wealth of beauty and an infinity of colors.

CHANGES WHICH HAVE BEEN MADE.

How is it to-day? What are the changes that have been wrought in these twelve years? Children of many nationalities now have homes on the camping ground of Bath Beach. Streets, broad, beautiful, tree lined, have been laid out; a sewerage system developed and introduced by the best of modern engineers exists; a great seaside park in Dyker Meadow is being made, and all modern improvements and accommodations in houses, sanitation and everything else essencomfort of man have been provided.

Dyker Meadow Park stretches from the military reservation at Fort Hamilton to Fifteenthfrom Bath Beach to the water line at athest. The park consists of 275 acres. and has a shore front, with excellent opportuni-ties for bathing, of 2,500 feet. The city bought this park two years ago, and is now beautifying it. Two artificial lakes will be made, trees will be planted and landscape gardens are making Eighty-sixth-st.

The place is easy of access. In the old days the Brooklyn, Bath Beach and West End Railroad charged 25 cents for a round trip from the old City Hall of Brooklyn to Bath Beach. To show how significant cheap fares are in the development of outlying districts it is only necessary to quote the statements of W. G. Morrissey, who has lived in Bath Beach for twenty years. twenty years.

DEMAND FOR LAND AND HOMES.

"Why," said Mr. Morrissey, yesterday, "our boom down here started the very day of the introduction of five-cent fares. With the trolley cars and the five-cent fare came a great demand for land hereabouts. These cars opened up many farms, which have been cut into building lots. Six years ago these lots cost from ing lots. Six years ago they sell easily for from $2,000 to $3,000. They are bound to increase greatly in value, as cars, by the construction of the new grade, like that of the Culver road, will be able to run directly from Park Row over the elevated roads down to Bensonhurst in the lock that the the state of the construction.

over the elevated roads down to benshinder in at least thirty-five minutes."

Speaking of the terms offered to investors, Mr. Morrissey said: "Usually 30 per cent of the purchase price is required cash down, while the 70 per cent is allowed to remain on mort-gage at 5 per cent interest. In exceptional cases only 10 per cent down is necessary, while the balance may go into a mortgage at 5 per cent interest. general styles of the cottages and houses The general styles of the cottages and houses in Bath Beach are of the Queen Anne and Colonial form of architecture. They are generally two-story buildings, with attic and cellar, have ten to twelve rooms, with bath, all modern conveniences, and are constructed according to the laws and regulations of the Board of Health and the Building Department. The lots are 60 by 100 feet or more, and the houses range in price from $3,000 upward. In the current year 125 cottages and houses have been erected in Bath Beach.

The special committee is to investigate the case of William J. Knapp, employed at the City Hall. In speaking about the action of the committee Timothy Tansey said yesterday: "When I went before the special committee, James R. proximity to the Sheepshead Bay, Brighton Beach and Brooklyn Jockey Club racetracks, and all of the popular seaside resorts.

Bath Beach is an attractive place for theatrical people. There in the long ago the late Barney Williams, a celebrated comedian, built Kathieen Villa, and every summer stage folk put up at the different hotels and spend their time in bathins and outdoor sports.

Within easy reach by the trolley cars are Fort Hamilton. Bay Ridge, Coney Island, Brighton and Manhattan Beach, Bensonhurst, Sea Gate and other well-known residential sections and resorts. Most of the land in Bath Beach and thereabouts is still owned by the Nostrands, Youngs, Cortelyous, Wyckoffs, Lotts and Van Pelts, or their estates.

side of the officer and was about to strike him with a stone when he received another shot. Hefore the constable could prevent it, the two wounded men dragged themselves to their wagon and started off in another direction. Hotalen and Dickson then turned their attention to George Campbell and succeeded in overpowering him. He was sent back to this place and locked up in the county jail.

Hotalen continued on the way to Port Jervis. When he arrived there he found that both Jason and James Campbell were in the hospital. The latter died this morning from his wounds, one ball having passed clear through his body. Jason Campbell is said to be at the point of death.

Hotalen returned to Newton this morning. He says he knew the Campbells to be desperate characters, and fired at them because he believed his life was in danger. TRAPPED BY A DETECTIVE. HE WORKS ALONGSIDE TWO MEN UNTIL and William Vanderhoof, of Whippany, were placed in the county jail to-day, charged with having set fire to McEwan Brothers' paper manufactory, at that place, a month ago.

Detective Charles W. Blake, disguised as tramp, went to Whippany and procured work alongside the two men, who were at that time suspected of the crime. Blake and the suspected men pected of the crime. Blake and the suspected men were much in each other's company, and the detective secured from them many damaging admissions, which resulted in their arrest.

Vanderhoof denies his guilt, but Shoughlin has made a complete confession, in which he implicates the other man. The detective gets a reward of $1,000 for his services.

At the time of the fire one of the employes was so badly burned in escaping from the building that he may die, in which case the two men will have to answer for murder. Vanderhoof and Shoughlin were formerly in the employ of McEwans Brothers, but had been discharged.

FOUND BONES AND OLD COINS.

GREWSOME DISCOVERY MADE BY BOYS IN A WOODS NEAR RAHWAY. Rahway June 13 (Special) -- Charles Reed, Joseph

Smith and William Peterson, three young boys, playing in the woods this morning near the Colonia Country Club, made a peculiar discovery. The lads intended to build a playhouse. They dug out a lo of earth and found a small box about three feet under the surface. Beside the box were several bones of the arm, shoulder and skull of a man. In the box were several coins. One was a penny dated 1820, and all are older than 1860.

DAVIS IS OBEYED.

THE STREET AND. WATER BOARD DISTRIBUTES

SPOILS AT HIS COMMAND. "Bob" Davis is boss of the Street an Board of Jersey City, and his order was obeyed yesterday, and the resolution was passed over the veto of Mayor Hoos appointing Garwood Ferria supervising engineer of the water works at $4,000, and Harry Bowley and James P. Hall assistant engineers, at $2,500 each a year. The Mayor obengineers, at $2.500 each a year. The Mayor op-jected to the appointments because he had not been consulted, and also on the ground that as only the preliminary work is going on the service of a supervising engineer is sufficient. He was also opposed to Hall's appointment, because he is not an engineer. A conference was held with the Finance Board, and the Street and Water Board decided to yield to the Mayor, but Davis objected and his command was obeyed.

JERSEY CITYS WATER CONTRACT.

IT OCCASIONS AN ARGUMENT IN THE SUPREME

Trenton, June 13 (Special).-The argument on the application for a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings relating to Jersey City's water con-tract was ended in the Supreme Court to-day. Congressman McEwan, representing the opponents of the contract, said that Jersey City already had a debt of $17,000,000, and that if this expenditure for water was persisted in the city would become bankrupt. The city should own its own water plant, he said. Half the money would establish plant, he said. Haif the money would establish such a plant.

Corporation Counsel McDermott said that the city wanted the contract. Under it the city would save 285,000 a year on the price of water. By the abolition of the Belleville waterworks $100,000 would be saved. If this contract was set aside and another entered into the expenditure would have to be increased $1,000,000, owing to the advance in prices of materials and the higher wages now prevalent for labor.
Charles L. Corbin, counsel for P. H. Flynn, the contractor, said that his client had already spent $200,000 on the contract.
The Court promised to decide the matter in the course of a few days.
